

Test the soil before you plant

Written by admin

Tuesday, 12 June 2012 06:29 - Last Updated Tuesday, 12 June 2012 06:37

If you are planning on using the ground in your urban garden to plant vegetables or small fruits, have it tested first. Urban areas have a history of use and some of the remnants of that use are not what you want in your food. If you don't have the time or money for soil testing use containers and fresh soil. Here is a short article on the subject:

Test the soil or use containers